Film Screening: Which Way Home

This 2009 documentary follows several children from Mexico and Central America on the treacherous journey to reach the United States atop "La Bestia," a freight train that traverses Mexico. The impactful stories of these children paint the picture of thousands of Latin American migrants that attempt this dangerous trip each year.

The film runs about 90 minutes and it will be followed by a short discussion. Ask you instructors if extra credit might be offered for attending.
